An artist's model of the Hindu Cultural and Religious Center to come up in R A Puram

The Tamil Nadu Government is to build a Hindu Religious and Cultural Center in RA Puram to host and promote Hinduism-based cultural activities and related projects in this field.

Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowment Minister P. K. Sekar Babu said the three-storied complex will come on a large property belonging to Sri Kapali Temple, Mylapore. The plot is in south Kesava

Perumal Puram and measures about 23 grounds. The complex will be built at a cost of Rs 28.76 Crores

The complex will have three floors with elevator and will have space for exhibition and display halls, community dining space, performances and meeting spaces.

The performance space can be rented for religious-themed recitals, concerts, events by private parties on rent. A library on Hindu religious themes is also planned. There will be a safe room for safe keeping of antique temple idols now in temples and those recovered.

Construction of the Center is to commence shortly. The Chief Minister M K Stalin is very eager that the center become a reality soon. It will help safeguard Hindu traditions since imparting of training is also included," Sekar Babu said.

The facilities will be rented out at nominal fees to institutions and individuals for cultural or religious activities only and showcasing Tamil traditions. There will be a huge library of Hindu spiritual books. On the ground floor there will be an exhibition highlighting the rich culture of Tamils and a dining hall to serve vegetarian food. The first floor will have three halls for conducting classes in music and Bharatanatyam and an auditorium with a 120 seat capacity. The second floor will have three multi-purpose halls and a dining hall to accommodate 240 persons.

Mylapore MLA Dha Velu whose initiative and support enabled the success of the project is very confident that the center would be inaugurated soon to help the residents of Mylapore.

Colorful Golu dolls on sale at Mada Streets

All Photos by S Rajendran

The four Mada Streets of Mylapore wore a festive look for the ensuing colorful Navaratri festival and the sale of dolls to be kept in the golu has begun with a display of wide variety of newer dolls this year.

The hawkers have set their shops on the pavements especially in the North mada Street and are busy selling clay and Papier Mache dolls to early bird customers. Navaratri begins Oct 15.

Besides the traditional Dasavatharam set, cricket team set, Kailayam set, marriage set, temple Pradosham set, golu set, newer varieties such as Tirupati set, Ashta Bhairavar set, Lalithambigai set, Chandrayan set, thee mithi (fire walk) Thiruvizha set, gilli dhanda game set, Gopika dance set with Lord Krishna are attracting the eyes. The height ranges from six centimeters to three feet.

Other dolls include Pandurangan-Rukmini pair, Sangeetha Mummorthis Vittobha Krishnar, Pillayarpati Ganesha, Annamacharya, Andal on the lap of Peyazhwar and agriculture set to pay tributes to farmers.

According to S Bhasumoni of All India Handlooms and Handicrafts in North Mada Street, newer dolls that has arrived including Guru Parambara set consisting of Adi Shankara, Maha Periyava and two Sankaracharyas, Ashtalakshmi set, Vishwaroopa set, Mickey Mouse in Papier Mache and Meenakshi kalyanam set.

“Lot of young girls come with their parents to buy new dolls and they are creative minded. They buy a few dolls here and there and assemble a new design as per their idea and hence are very particular in what they are buying. They buy mix and match and create their own scenario at their home golu,” says Kamakshi, a vendor. “They are environment conscious and avoid plastic toys and prefer only biodegradable ones.”

The hawkers are expecting more varieties and are keeping the rain god in their prayers not to play spoil sport. The Met Department has warned heavy rains especially in the evenings.
