600 families evicted from Adyar banks

The water resources department (WRD) is set to begin evicting more than 600 families living along the Adyar riverbank in Anakaputhur next week, nearly a year after notices were first issued

Despite constructing permanent structures illegally on the river's edge, the squatters had resisted eviction for months. The delay was further prolonged by legal challenges in the Madras high court, which have now been resolved

A senior WRD engineer confirmed that after prolonged negotiations, the department is ready to proceed. The families will be resettled in tenements built by the Tamil Nadu Urban Habitat Development Board(TNUHDB) across three locations—Perumbakkam, Thailavaram near Perungalathur, and Keerappakkam—with 200 housing units in each

The encroachments in Anakaputhur include settlements in Thai Moogambigai Nagar, Quaid-e-Millath Nagar, Shanthi Colony, and MGR Nagar. With this round of evictions, WRD officials claim that nearly 75% of encroachments along the Adyar river have now been cleared.

Four more major settlements remain Mallippoo Nagar in Adyar, Annai Sathya Nagar on Greenways Road, Saidapet, and the remainder of Anakaputhur. Mallippoo Nagar is the largest, with more than 1,200 families, followed by Saidapet with more than 500. The other two areas have a few hundred residents each.

While the Adyar river restoration project was launched, WRD had identified 9,539 families for resettlement. Officials said the availability of new tenements and recent consent from residents has paved the way for smoother rehabilitation this time.

"The rehabilitation drive is essential to prevent environmental degradation and protect lives," the senior engineer said.

Additionally, as part of the project, desilting along 18 km and fencing across key stretches in Chennai, Kancheepuram, and Chengalpattu has been completed. Parks, plantations, bridge beautification, and modular STPs are in place, with more than 8,797 tons of solid waste cleared, according to data submitted before the National Green Tribunal.

Kauvery Hospital gets CAR-T therapy

Kauvery Hospital, Alwarpet, has introduced Chimeric Antigen Receptor T-cell (CAR-T) therapy for cancer treatment.

CAR-T therapy is primarily used to treat conditions such as acute lymphoblastic leukemia and diffuse large B-cell lymphoma, especially in those who have not responded to standard treatments. The advanced immunotherapy for specific types of blood cancer is available at only a few centers in India.

At a press conference, doctors said CAR-T therapy involved modifying a patient's own immune cells (T-cells) to better recognize and attack cancer cells. Once reengineered in a lab, the cells are infused back into the patient, where they target and destroy cancer cells, offering a more personalized and targeted treatment option.

According to the Indian Council of Medical Research India sees over 1.4 million new cancer cases annually with blood cancers forming a significant proportion. CAR-T therapy is emerging as a vital option when chemotherapy and bone marrow transplants fail.

Dr Anitha Ramesh, consultant, medical oncologist at the hospital, said CAR-T therapy would have to be done only for patients for whom chemotherapy had not worked.

The patient's blood will be collected and sent to Immuno ACT, a biomedical research facility in Mumbai, where the T-cells will be genetically engineered

After 19 days, the modified cells will be returned and infused back into the patient, she said.

Dr Hasmukh Jain, professor, medical oncologist, Tata Memorial Centre; Shirish Arya, CEO, Immuno ACT; A. N. Vaidhyswaran, director of radiation oncology, Kauvery Hospital, Alwarpet, Suresh Kumar, consultant, medical oncologist; and Arshad Raja, consultant oncologist, were present.

A city where air conditioners take a battering

A family living at an independent house in Mylapore is feeling the heat, ironically on account of an air-conditioner.

Five years old, it has stopped working and is unserviceable. Buy a new one or replace the outdoor unit — the service company has told the family.

Not a peculiar case in Chennai: the city's high humidity and salty air from the long coastline take a toll on ACs faster. In localities close to sewage treatment plants and the Cooum, copper pipes in the indoor AC unit are hugely corrosion-prone.

Weakened copper components lead to leakage of gas and reduced efficiency of the AC unit. Many residents have been told by service technicians that fumes coming from sewage released from pumping stations lead to wear and tear of components.

Last summer, a consumer from Perungudi invested in an AC that came with a five-year warranty. “That was a calculated decision as we were spending a lot on repairing ACs as they are vulnerable to corrosion in our area. Sometimes each service would cost me Rs 3,000 and once to change the coil we had to shell out Rs 8, 000,” he says

An average split AC is built to last for 10 to 15 years but that is changing. The Central Government is also working on schemes to nudge consumers to replace old ACs with new five star models that are more energy-efficient.

Ashwin Kumar, director, Techno Air Conditioners, says five to seven years is a decent lifespan for a residential AC unit in Chennai if it has functioned without much of a hiccup.

He says saltwater is one big enemy for copper coils that is a key component in the outdoor unit of AC, making them more susceptible to damage from corrosion.

“What the motherboard is to the computer, the compressor is to the AC. It plays a direct and indirect role on the unit's performance. The type of gas that we are feeding into the compressor also plays a role. So when the compressor is overloaded the cooling coil is also impacted,” he says

The Bureau of Energy Efficiency recommends that all air-conditioned brands set their default temperature at 24 degree Celsius to ensure saving on electricity and to reduce carbon footprint.

“For the last two years, most of the major AC brands come with an inbuilt sticker in the indoor unit that states that 24 degree Celsius is the ambient temperature to be maintained, but more awareness about this feature needs to be created both by retail outlets and technicians,” he says.

He says technicians have tools to check whether the flow of gas is happening, if the pumping system is working and whether the required fan speed is maintained.

For offices and commercial establishments where the capacity is between 50 and 100 tones, it pays to have a dedicated technician to handle the remote control or the central AC switch as frequent temperature adjustments can affect its lifespan, he says.

Two-way traffic restored on Santhome High Road

In a significant relief for daily commuters, the Chennai Metropolitan Traffic Police has announced the restoration of two-way traffic movement on Santhome High Road and Loop Road May 9. These key arterial roads had been operating as one-way routes since 2024 to facilitate ongoing Chennai Metro Rail construction work in the area.

The traffic diversion was originally implemented to ensure public safety and smooth progress of metro rail construction activities near Karaneeswarar Kovil Street. With substantial completion achieved in one section of Santhome Highway, authorities have now approved the partial restoration of normal traffic patterns.

However, commuters should note that one-way restrictions will remain in effect during peak hours – from 7:30 am to 11:00 am and again from 5:00 pm to 8:30 pm daily. The two-way traffic facility will be available during all other off-peak hours.

Local residents and daily commuters have expressed relief at this development, which is expected to significantly ease traffic congestion in the Santhome area. A traffic police official stated, “This is a phased restoration based on work completion. We request all road users to follow the revised traffic patterns and cooperate with traffic personnel during the transition period.”

The announcement comes as part of Chennai Metro's broader effort to minimize public inconvenience while
